WILLIAMSBURG, October 16.

Extract of a letter from Philadelphia, October 5.

"The enemy, it is generally believed, will leave New York in full, and land considerable reinforcements to the West Indies, &c. that I doubt the evacuating New York. They came into the Jerseys about ten days ago, foraging and destroying as their intention, in which they have succeeded. They came as far as Tinicum, near which place they surrounded Col. Baylor's detachment, and have taken twenty of his dragoons and their horses, with some officers, amongst which I am afraid is the Colonel himself, and Major Clow."

Extract of another letter from the same gentleman, of a later date.

"I wrote you a few days ago, to which I refer, and am sorry to say our friends Col. Baylor and Major Clow are no more. Both are said to be dead of their wounds, and many of our men were put to death after they had surrendered."

Last Sunday the river rose at Richmond to a very great height, which did not begin to abate till Tuesday morning, owing to the great rains which have fallen in the country, and in the neighbourhood of Richmond. It is supposed much injury has been done by the flood in its way off, and sundry gentlemen above Richmond have suffered considerably, by the loss of many of their stocks, &c.

His Excellency General Washington's head quarters are removed from White Plains to Fredericksburg, in the state of New York, twenty two miles eastward of Fort Hill, whence, and in its vicinity, the grand American army is now encamped.

THOMAS READ,)

In the High Court of Chancery, at the Capitol in the city of Williamſburg, Sept. 10, 1778.

THE court being informed by the counſel attending, that they have been ſo lately engaged in any of the buſineſs as not to be prepared to argue their clients cauſes, and it appearing probable that many ſuitors have not had notice of the eſtabliſhment of this court, notwithſtanding the order at their laſt adjournment, the court are of opinion that a further continuance of their preſent ſeſſion for this term is unneceſſary.

It is therefore ordered, that a copy of the ſaid order of the 10th of April laſt be republiſhed two months in each of the Virginia Gazettes, in order to admoniſh all perſons concerned, unleſs they take the proper ſteps to bring their ſuits to a hearing, they muſt expect to have them diſmiſſed.

BENJAMIN C. WALLER, C. H. C. C.

In the High Court of Chancery, at the Capitol in the city of Williamſburg, April 14, 1778.

UPON conſidering the ſtate of the cauſes depending in this court, that many gentlemen who formerly acted as counſel have declined the buſineſs, and that the parties may not have ſufficient time to prepare for proſecuting and defending their ſuits, and nothing being offered to make the farther attendence of the judges neceſſary, it is the opinion of the court, that an adjournment to the next term ſhould now take place; and it is ordered that publication be made in each of the Gazettes, for three weeks ſucceſſively, that this court will at the ſucceeding ſeſſion, to commence on the 5th day of September next, proceed in courſe to the hearing ſuch cauſes as may be ready for their determination, of which it is expected that all perſons concerned will take due notice, and prepare themſelves accordingly.
